Note on the Translation

The translation, of Articles not amended in 2018, is that made available by the Constitutional Council of Mozambique, as previously reproduced in World Constitution Illustrated in 2011.

The amendments made by Law No. 1/2018 of 12 June 2018 were based on the official Portuguese text as published in the Boletim da República, I Series – Number 115, 12 June 2018. New or revised translation has been made of all these amended and inserted Articles.

In addition, where Articles were consequentially amended for consistency in their internal references to other Articles, these have also been newly translated.

In the previous translation, the text of Art. 50 did not correspond with the Boletim da República of either 2004 or 2018 (unchanged), and has also be retranslated.

Following typical Lusophone practice, a new consolidated text of the whole of the Constitution is annexed to the amending law. This has resulted in a complete renumbering following Art. 140.

The translation here is, therefore, a hybrid. The previous translation conforms to British usage; the translation of the amended Articles conforms to American usage.

A completely revised translation of the whole of the text is in preparation.

CONSTITUTION OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOZAMBIQUE

11 June 2004

Amended by Law No. 1/2018 of 12 June 2018

Meeting the age-old desires of our people, the armed struggle for national liberation, whose purpose was to liberate the land and Man, brought together all the patriotic sectors of Mozambican society in the same ideals of freedom, unity, justice and progress.

When national independence was won on the 25th of June 1975, the Mozambican people were given back their fundamental rights and freedoms.

The Constitution of 1990 introduced the democratic rule of law, based on the separation and interdependence of powers and on pluralism. It laid down the structural parameters for modernisation, making a decisive contribution to the beginning of a democratic climate that led the country to its first multiparty elections.

This Constitution reaffirms, develops and deepens the fundamental principles of the Mozambican State, and enshrines the sovereign nature of the democratic rule of law, based on pluralism of expression and partisan organisation and on respect for and the guarantee of fundamental rights and liberties of citizens.

The extensive participation of citizens in making this basic law conveys the consensus to strengthen democracy and national unity, which flows from the collective wisdom of the people.
